How the Register is arranged

The UK Register of Expert Witnesses is designed to help litigation lawyers locate competent expert witnesses. In combining a book, software and on-line searching, the Register offers lawyers the most flexible expert search tool in the UK market today.

Those experts (over 85%) who have opted to be vetted by us are clearly marked, together with the total number of positive recommendations received and the date of most recent vetting.

Subject index

The subject index is in many ways the most important part of the Register. It is compiled from the fields of expertise detailed in the list of expert witnesses and is comprehensively cross-indexed to ensure that very few terms merely refer you to another term.

Numbers and regions

The numbers in the index refer to the entries for the experts concerned, not to the pages on which their entries appear. The letter in front of each number identifies the geographical region in which the expert is based. All entries from a region are listed together and sorted into ascending numerical order.

The regional identifiers are:

A	South West England	H	Wales
B	Southern England	J	West Midlands
C	South East England	K	East Midlands
D	Greater London	L	Northern England
E	East Anglia	N	Southern Scotland
F	Thames Valley	P	Highlands & Islands
G	Severn Valley	R	Northern Ireland

By knowing the code letter for your geographical region you can quickly locate experts near to you. For even greater certainty, the boundaries of the regions are shown on the map printed on the flap at the front of the book.

Additional indexes

If you are not sure in which region or postal area a particular town is located, please refer to the regional map and index on the fold-out flap at the front of the Register, or to the town index on page 325. However, if you already know the name of the expert you are seeking, or the name of the firm for which the expert works, the indexes of surnames (page 297) and company names (page 303) will provide a quick means of tracking down the required entry.

Finally, on page 307 we have provided a guide to many of the post-nominal abbreviations that appear in the Register. (The Abbreviations Index has been compiled from information provided by the listed expert witnesses. It is not intended to be, nor should it be used as, an authority as to the meaning of any particular term.)

Codes and symbols

Codes and symbols are used throughout the list of expert witnesses to represent various categories of information. Within the body of an entry you may see any of the following:

-  Telephone
-  Fax
-  E-mail
-  Website
-  Dx Document exchange
-  G Geographical limits
-  L Languages spoken (in addition to English)

In addition, any combination of the following symbols may appear alongside entries to indicate that the expert:

-  is prepared to discuss a potential instruction by telephone for 10 minutes free of charge
-  has lodged a profile sheet
-  has lodged a CV
-  is prepared to undertake legally aided work
-  is prepared to be instructed in criminal cases
-  is prepared to be instructed as a single joint expert.

Finally, one of the following symbols may appear for medical practitioners who are prepared to be instructed as expert witnesses in cases alleging medical malpractice:

-  only on behalf of the medical attendant
-  only on behalf of the patient
-  on behalf of either the medical attendant or the patient.

Vetting data

Each entry shows the total number of references, together with the date of the most recent reference.

Listing by expertise

Because the list of expert witnesses in the printed Register is ordered by region, it is not always easy to compare experts in related disciplines. To obtain listings by expertise, use our on-line version of the Register which can be found at www.jspubs.com.

Expert vetting procedure

From its beginnings in 1988, the UK Register of Expert Witnesses has used an objective method of vetting potential registrants. Our vetting procedure is concerned only with checking the witness part of the expert witness equation. Still, it has stood the test of time, and was, indeed, adopted by the Law Society of England and Wales when it started publishing a list of its own.

We ensure that all experts listed as 'vetted' are independently vetted by us. There are no exceptions to our vetting procedure. So users of our services can be certain that all expert witnesses listed by the Register as 'vetted' have experience of acting as expert witnesses.

Vetting procedure

On receipt of an expert application requesting vetting:

- We contact instructing solicitors (or barristers or legal executives) asking for an opinion as to their satisfaction with the expert concerned.
- If the legal professional feels able to make a recommendation of the expert to legal colleagues in general, then their assessment of the expert is recorded and the expert marked as 'vetted'.

Periodic re-vetting

Once experts have been successfully vetted, they have the option to undertake re-vetting.

Re-vetting enables experts to subject themselves to periodic review by instructing lawyers. We ask each lawyer referee whether he or she is able to make a general recommendation as to the expert's abilities as an expert witness in a number of key categories, including:

- SJE work
- criminal work
- civil work
- report writing
- courtroom skills
- cross-examination.

An expert's on-line entry reflects the most current vetting date for each aspect of expert witness work vetted, plus a running total of the number of individuals who have recommended the expert witness. From this, lawyers will be able to gain an appreciation for each expert of:

- how recently the vetting was undertaken
- the total number of recommendations received.

Within the printed Register we publish a generalised 'last vetted' date, as well as the total number of positive recommendations gained by the expert.

Individual listings

The vast majority of entries list individuals rather than companies. This is because it is an individual you will be instructing, and it is the individual in whom you will want to have confidence.

Quality control

If you have a complaint about any expert witness instructed from the Register, please contact us and we will investigate the matter.

Register logo

The Register logo may be used by those experts who have passed our vetting procedure and are listed in the current edition of the UK Register of Expert Witnesses. There is no charge made for using our logo. Use of the logo by an expert implies nothing more than they are listed in the current edition.

Vetted experts may also use a dated version of the Register logo bearing the year of their most recent recommendation.

Expert recommendation scheme

To recommend an expert for inclusion in a future edition, please contact us by telephone, fax, e-mail or letter. We will then send the expert relevant information, together with an application form.

Expert Location Service

No printed source of expert witnesses can meet all your needs. So the UK Register of Expert Witnesses offers an Expert Location Service.

Our Expert Location Service is available from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday to Thursday. Simply call (01638) 561590 or fax (01638) 560924 to access our Helpline.

Address and contact number enquiries

Address and telephone/fax number enquiries for currently listed expert witnesses are available free to all users of the Register. Such enquiries will be dealt with immediately.

Expertise searches

Requests for customised searches for expertise are available at no additional charge to Registered Users of the UK Register of Expert Witnesses, subject to a fair use policy of 30 searches per year.

A search fee of £25 + VAT per request is charged if your firm is not registered but you would like help to find an appropriate expert witness.

List of Expert Witnesses

Ordering of the entries

The entries in the list of expert witnesses are grouped by postal district within each of the 14 regions to facilitate the location of experts in specific geographical areas. Moreover, within each postal area the entries are ordered alphabetically by town to pinpoint expert witnesses even more closely.

A regional map and index are reproduced on the fold-out flap at the front of the Register. There is also a town index, starting on page 325, which allows you to determine in which postal area and region a given town is located.

Codes and symbols

Codes and symbols are used throughout the list of expert witnesses to represent various categories of information. Within the body of an entry you may see any of the following:

 Telephone	 Document exchange
 Fax	 Geographical limits
 E-mail	 Languages spoken (in addition to English)
 Website

In addition, any combination of the following symbols may appear alongside entries to indicate that the expert:

-  is prepared to discuss a potential instruction by telephone for 10 minutes free of charge
-  has lodged a profile sheet
-  has lodged a CV
-  is prepared to undertake legally aided work
-  is prepared to be instructed in criminal cases
-  is prepared to be instructed as a single joint expert.

Finally, one of the following symbols may appear for medical practitioners who are prepared to write reports or appear as expert witnesses in cases alleging medical malpractice:

-  only on behalf of the medical attendant
-  only on behalf of the patient
-  on behalf of either the medical attendant or the patient.

Vetting data

Each entry shows the total number of references, together with the date of the most recent reference. More detailed vetting information can be found by visiting the expert's entry on-line or on the software.

 Dr Phil Smith specialises in cases that involve water pollution or forensic aquatic biology. He has 40 years of experience in ecological surveys of rivers, estuaries and coastal waters. He is a specialist in Ecological Impact Assessments of developments (e.g. oil, sewage, housing, ports and harbours) that may affect aquatic resources. Dr Smith is on the National Crime Agency Database for Expert Advisors and has provided advice to Devon and Cornwall Police on the time a skull had spent in water. More routine work involves assessing the impacts of water pollution incidents due to sewage, chemical discharges, dredging, etc. on aquatic life, including shellfish and fish.

Abbreviations Index

This index lists the abbreviations used by the expert witnesses in the Register. Please note that it has been compiled from the information provided by the expert witnesses themselves. It is not intended to be, nor should it be used as, an authority as to the meaning of any particular term.

Where the text of an abbreviation or its meaning varies, brackets are used to indicate the optional text, e.g. A[M]RAeS means that both AMRAeS and ARAeS are used by experts listed in the Register to signify Associate Member of the Royal Aeronautical Society. Any optional qualifying information is shown using parentheses around the optional text. Any such qualifying information is not covered in this index, e.g. BSc(Hons) means BSc with honours; only the main abbreviation, BSc, is included in this index. Similarly, indication of 'honorable' has been ignored in compiling this index.
